Masked intruders hold knife to wife's chest

HAVE-a-go hero pensioner John Ives told yesterday how he fended off two knife-wielding burglars who threatened to stab his wife.

The 78-year-old retired postman rushed to defend wife June, 77, after two men wearing black ski masks burst into their Haverhill home as they watched Emmerdale last Friday night.

One of the burglars held an eight-inch knife to terrified June's chest while the other villain told her to stop screaming or she would "get hurt".

Courageous John immediately ran to his wife's aid and yanked the knife away before the thug threw him across the room.

But John grabbed a 40lb solid oak chair from the dinner table and used it to force the two burglars out of the front door, in Downs Place, like "a lion tamer would control wild beasts".

Great-grandfather-of-one John, who served with the Royal Engineers when he was 18, said: "I looked up and there were a couple of blokes dressed in black and wearing ski masks at the door.

"One of them was holding a knife to June's chest so I rushed over and grabbed his arm away but he pulled me back across the room.

Fire crews scrub up for colleagues with charity car wash

FIREFIGHTERS raised £405 for their national charity with a car washing day.

The crew at Haverhill's new fire station in Lordscroft Lane were among those taking part in aid of the Fire Fighters' Charity, which offers help to firefighters and their families.

Crew manager Paul Ricketts said: "This was the first car wash we have had at the new fire station. It was fairly busy all day and we're grateful for the support we had."

In neighbouring Cambridgeshire, more than £2,000 was raised in total when car washes were staged at five fire stations.

The official opening of Haverhill fire station will be on Tuesday, October 19, when Cllr Rae Leighton, Suffolk County Council's portfolio holder for public protection, will perform the ceremony.

Cuppas and cakes a hit

MORE than £600 was raised at a Macmillan World's Biggest Coffee Morning in Linton Village Hall.

Kerri Harmer, who organised the event, said the amount was the most raised as part of an annual coffee morning scheme in the village.

She said: "It was a fun day. The village hall was full, creating a great atmosphere. It's amazing that simply enjoying a cup of coffee and sampling delicious cakes, while catching up with friends, can make a difference to people affected by cancer. "Thank you to everyone who helped on the day, provided raffle donations and made such lovely cakes, and to the local Co-op for their ongoing support."

"Also this year Rhyme and Rhythm music group donated £80 towards the total."

First meeting of new WI

A NEW Women's Institute will hold its first official meeting later this month.

More than 20 women expressed an interest in joining the new evening WI in Haverhill at two previous meetings to discuss its formation.

Now the first formal meeting is due to be held on Wednesday, October 20, at Haverhill Arts Centre at 7.30pm.

Chris Thompson, who has helped start the new WI, said: "We're really pleased at the excellent response we have had."

She said the new WI would run separately from the existing afternoon WI in the town. Any more potential members are welcome to attend the meeting.

Tall tales for children

PARENTS and under 5s can take part in a storytelling event.

Marion Leeper will be telling stories of magic and fantasy at Cartwheels Children's Centre, in Greenfields Way, Haverhill, between 9.30am and 10.45am tomorrow.

She will stage a workshop session for parents between 1.30pm and 3pm. Cllr Anne Gower, who chairs the management board at the centre, said: "This is a fantastic opportunity to hear and see the amazing story-teller." Places must be booked in advance by calling (01440) 760500.

Challenges for new NHS chief

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editor@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A DOCTOR living in Haverhill has become the head of the NHS in Suffolk.

Dr Paul Watson started this week as chief executive of NHS Suffolk, taking over from Carole Taylor-Brown, who headed the organisation since it was created in 2006.

Dr Watson, previously chief executive of the NHS in North East Essex, trained as a doctor at Cambridge University, followed by post graduate training in public health in Yorkshire.

Dr Watson has held a number of board-level medical and general management posts. He is also a member of the Independent Reconfiguration Panel and the National Institute of Clinical Excellence appraisal committee.

Dr Watson said: "It is an immense privilege to be taking on this role. The enthusiasm of staff – and what they have achieved by working together for the people of Suffolk – has impressed me hugely.

"The NHS is going through an exciting change. I'll be working with colleagues to focus on further improvements to local NHS services while driving forward the changes which will put GPs and patients at the forefront of decision making.

"I have found working at NHS North East Essex immensely rewarding. I leave in the knowledge that a talented and committed team will be continuing their excellent work."

Dr Watson said one of the big challenges faced by the NHS was how to improve services while keeping budgets under control.

He will also be at the helm while further organisational changes in the NHS take place, giving GPs management of the budget.

Alistair McWhirter, chairman of NHS Suffolk, said: "We believe Dr Watson will be very committed to the changes we have to make as well as ensuring the people of Suffolk continue to receive the best possible care available."

Since its creation, NHS Suffolk has cleared its £35m historic debt and reduced waiting times for hospital and particularly cancer treatments.

Joy for couple at hospice wedding

A DYING cancer patient has married his long-term partner in a moving ceremony in a hospice.

Haverhill couple Ivan Warren and Christine Pinckney finally tied the knot after 23 years in a service held at St Nicholas Hospice Care in Bury St Edmunds.

Family and friends gathered to wish the happy couple well, after they only decided to get married four days earlier, when he was admitted to the hospital's Sylvan Ward.

The ceremony took place in the communal area at the hospice and was partly conducted by hospice chaplain Charles Amoah.

Ivan, 67, who has bone cancer, said: "This is what you call a shotgun wedding. We both couldn't believe how much everyone at the hospice did for us to ensure we were able to get married – they just couldn't do enough.

"We would like to thank everyone who made it possible. I am left with all these memories of how much everyone at the hospice helped us – and that is worth more than any wedding present."

Christine, 63, said she and her new husband had never really discussed marriage until days before the ceremony, when a friend suggested it was "about time" they tied the knot.

Christine said: "When our friend left, we both looked at each other and thought it was a good idea to put a seal on our relationship."

"We didn't know if it would be possible with Ivan in the hospice and it has been a crazy, hectic few days but it has all been worth it. All the thoughtfulness and kindness shown by the hospice has been overwhelming."

The final piece of music, The Teddy Bears' Picnic, was particularly poignant for Ivan, who sang it with the Cambridge Chord Company, which he has been a member of for almost 15 years.

Corrine Revens, Sylvan Ward sister, said: "The whole hospice team worked together to make sure Ivan and Christine's wedding was made possible."

"There was a very special atmosphere at the hospice on Wednesday and we felt very privileged to be part of their big day."

“This is what you call a shotgun wedding. We both couldn't believe how much everyone at the hospice did for us to ensure we were able to get married.”

"I couldn't get to my walking stick, so I picked up the chair from the dining room table and went at them."

"It's very heavy but that didn't register at the time. Suddenly they changed their minds and ran off into the night."

"I wasn't scared at the time but five minutes later we were both terrified."

John received minor cuts and bruises to his top lip in the struggle while June escaped unharmed.

The burglars did not take any valuables although one of the men stole the handset of the Ives' home telephone. The pair ran off towards Crowland Road Detective Sergeant Ann Naylor of Suffolk Police, who is investigating the incident, has praised John's bravery.

She said: "This type of incident is extremely rare, and the couple are being supported by police and the local community as they recover from their ordeal."

"Whilst we would not recommend anyone putting themselves at risk by challenging offenders, the couple were very brave in forcing these people out of their house."

John and June have been married for 56 years and have lived together in their terraced house in Haverhill for more than 50 years.

Suffolk Police have released an e-fit of the suspect who is described as white, around 25 years old, slim, between 5ft 6in and 6ft tall and bald with a thin, pointy face.

Anyone with information should call (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Councillor foots bill for Broads boat trip

A COUNTY councillor has helped pay for an outing to the Norfolk Broads for members of a blind and partially-sighted group.

Nearly 30 members of Haverhill BAPS, a branch of the West Suffolk Voluntary Association for the Blind, went on the trip in the summer.

Now Cllr Philip French, who represents Haverhill Cangle division on Suffolk County Council, has handed over a cheque for £912 from his locality budget to help cover the cost of the trip.

Jennefer Hampson, group organiser and a trustee of the West

Suffolk Voluntary Association for the Blind, said: "We're very grateful for his support as most of our members are on limited incomes."

"These sort of outings are terribly expensive."

The trip included a meal at Wroxham Barns and a trip on the Broads on the Mississippi paddle boat.

Haverhill BAPS meet monthly at the Bowls and Cricket Club in Manor Road, Haverhill.

Incinerator plans move step closer

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

CONTROVERSIAL plans to burn Suffolk's household waste moved a step closer when councillors signed the contract to build a multi-million pound incinerator.

The scheme, opposed by Liberal Democrats on Suffolk County Council and environmental groups, has been heralded as an alternative to dumping waste in landfill sites and a step towards making the county "greener".

But opponents have raised fears about pollution and have claimed that there is an increased risk of cancers, respiratory problems and birth defects for people living near the site for the incinerator at Great Blakenham, near Ipswich.

The county council has commissioned SITA UK, one of the country's leading recycling and resource management companies, to build and run the Energy from Waste facility – as the incinerator is officially known.

'Best solution': Cllr Lisa Chambers.

The council has argued that the switch to burning rubbish would save £350 million in landfill costs over the 25-year life of the contract.

The incinerator will also generate electricity and ash left from burning waste could be used in road building and other projects.

Cllr Lisa Chambers, the county council's portfolio holder for waste, said: "We are committed to recycling and composting as much waste as possible and are delighted that recycling rates in the county are improving, thanks to the efforts of Suffolk residents."

"However, some waste simply can't be recycled and we needed to find the best possible solution for dealing with this waste."

Cllr Chambers, who represents Newmarket and Red Lodge, said: "The signing of this contract takes us one step closer to that solution and represents tremendous value for money for Suffolk, which in the current economic climate is very good news."

"SITA UK will pay for the £180 million building and we'll get a Government grant to help cover the running costs over the next 25 years."

A decision on the planning application is expected by the end of next year and if permission is granted work will start early in 2012 and will be finished by December 2014.

An Environment Agency permit would also be needed before the building can be used.

Exhibitions have been staged around the county to explain more about the project. One was being staged today in the Cornhill Walk shopping centre in Bury St Edmunds.

Cyclist's plea after accident at crossing

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A TEENAGE cyclist has appealed for help in tracing a driver whose car ran into her.

Chloe Drayson, 16, needed an operation to pin a broken ankle after the collision on the zebra crossing at Haverhill's Cangle junction.

The elderly driver of the black Vauxhall Corsa did not get out of his car after the collision although a woman who said she was his daughter gave Chloe a drink of water afterwards.

They later left the scene without giving their details.

Chloe, of Markhams Close, Haverhill, has just had the cast removed from her ankle but still needs crutches to walk.

She has appealed for the driver and other witnesses to come forward. The collision happened as she was riding across the crossing.

She said: "The traffic had stopped on one side so I went across, but this car hit me."

She was helped by the woman passenger from the car and other younger women from another car which had stopped.

After sitting on the Corn Exchange steps for about 10 minutes she walked home. But when her ankle swelled up her brother took her to A&E at Addenbrooke's Hospital. She had to go back to the hospital several days later for an operation to pin the ankle.

The Castle Manor A-level student must return to the hospital in about six weeks for a check-up.

At the time of the collision Chloe was working for an agency packing boxes during the summer holiday. She said she had lost about £225 in pay because of the injury.

The car driver was a balding man aged about 60 to 70. His daughter was thought to be in her 30s with shoulder-length curly hair.

The driver, or anyone who witnessed the collision, which happened between 10.45am and 11.15am on Saturday, August 14, should contact Pc Jake Lees at Haverhill police on (01284) 774100.

Victim of abuse sets up charity to protect children

A VICTIM of a sadistic headmaster has set up a charity.

Russell White (pictured left), who lives in Haverhill and works as a doorman in Cambridge, was abused by Derek Slade at a Suffolk boarding school during the 1980s. Slade was jailed for 21 years last month after admitting a reign of terror at his schools.

Mr White, 40, waived his anonymity to speak of how he was beaten, as the Weekly News reported.

Now he has set up Stop

Abuse Now And Forever (SANAF) with Mark Smith, who also suffered at the hands of Slade at the same school.

Mr White plans to travel to India, where Slade went to after his teaching career, and where it is alleged he may have targeted young boys.

The pair also want to see tougher safeguards to protect children in schools and have written to Prime Minister David Cameron to ask for a meeting.

Suggestions for councillors

Sir, As a resident of Haverhill for many years I can quite understand why 80 per cent of local people do not vote or support the town council at local elections. At the last Community First meeting, the indecisiveness of councillors discussing the possible grant of £10k towards a cycle path sums up nicely the low opinion. Cllr Martin, being brave and bold, spending £10k of other people's money without a clue of where it is coming, is a recipe for disaster. Must try harder next time. Cllr McManus, sitting on the fence, egging others on from a distance, going with the flow . . . decisions, decisions, aaaaah! Cllr Byrne, in my opinion, did the decent thing – if we ain't got it, don't spend it. Well done. The town clerk was unusually quiet? My suggestions are:
 ■ use the Locality Fund's singly or jointly, or is this too simple?;
 ■ the town clerk retires at end of term: replace him with a job-share with Bury council, saving a possible £80k a year. You wouldn't have to cut back on staff either. Obviously the councillors can't think of anything, but I wonder what other people think about this suggestion, in the present financial climate. Looking further than your nose at council meetings is the way forward. Hopefully at the full council meeting they can make a responsible decision on this matter.

Close the lid on coffee case

Sir, Regarding your article, Shopper's outrage at voucher 'fob off' – Weekly News, September 30). Let us consider this incident:
 1. As reported, the gentleman found a piece of foil in the jar of coffee.
 2. The foil was apparently part of the seal to the jar.
 3. The foil was spotted before the coffee was drunk
 4. Sainsbury's have given a £30 voucher in response to a complaint about this.
 Furthermore:
 1. The coffee is undoubtedly mass packaged by automatic machinery.
 2. Even with the most stringent controls automatic systems sometimes malfunction and from these incidents improvements are made to the processes
 3. The actual cause of the problem is unknown but there appears to be no evidence of obvious negligence or recklessness on the part of Sainsbury's in selling the product.
 4. The gentleman suffered no actual

Last week's Memories photograph, from our archives, showed Castle Hill Middle School students taking part in a Christmas play at Haverhill Library. It was taken in December, 1986, Father Michael Teader, of St Felix Church, Haverhill, recalled the picture and those in it. He said: "The boy at the back of the picture is Alex Clark who went on to be a very talented football player. "The girl at the back is Amanda Ankin. injury from the foil.
 5. Finding the foil must have been a surprise and somewhat alarming for the gentleman but it is not clear how or why monetary 'compensation' will assuage this as no actual loss has been suffered and the incident in itself is not of earth-shattering importance. Perhaps the gentleman should suggest a sum which would make him happy – £50/ £100/etc. I carry no torch for the supermarkets but am sure they will investigate the matter with their suppliers to try to prevent a recurrence. My conclusion is that the ex-gratia offer from Sainsbury's constitutes a fair goodwill gesture for an error in their supply chain and that the gentleman should consider the matter closed. The whole incident smacks of the modern inability to distinguish between accident and negligence which pervades our society.

Pump paves the way for near-normal life for Jake

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A teenage diabetic has spoken about coping with the disorder since the age of 3.

Jake Hudson, 14, of Arrendene Road, Haverhill, has been helped to live a near-normal life thanks to an insulin pump which keeps his diabetes in check.

His mum, Michelle, said the family noticed that Jake, a student at the town's Samuel Ward Arts and Technology College, was unwell when he was around 3 years old.

She said: "He had stopped eating properly, he was sleeping all the time and drinking huge amounts. We started to notice that he had lost a lot of weight too."

"I was so worried but thought it was food poisoning and would eventually get better. We decided after three days that we needed to see the GP and as soon as he was seen, Jake was immediately diagnosed with type 1 diabetes and referred straight to a specialist."

Mrs Hudson was 37 weeks pregnant at the time but also had to cope with Jake's condition.

She said: "It became very tricky for us to manage his condition at that point. Jake was so young, he didn't really understand what was happening. The idea of having an injection every day was absurd to him. We had to chase him round the house when it came to the time for his injection."

"As Jake got older he tried a number of treatments including twice-daily injections, multiple daily injections and insulin pumps. His insulin needs have always been quite minimal, which meant hypoglycaemia was always difficult to detect."

"He was put on an insulin pump five years ago and since then, it revolutionised how his diabetes was managed. His most recent pump was the Paradigm Veo, which has been the most easy to control. I didn't have to constantly feed him and we soon began to relax more."

Jake said: "At first it was difficult to manage as I had to be injected with insulin for so long, after that I had an injection pen which I had to use every time I ate."

"Five years ago I was put on insulin pumps and since then, I forget they are even there. When I was on the Paradigm Veo insulin pump the sensor would detect my glucose levels so there'd be no need to adjust it myself."

"The idea of having an injection every day was absurd to Jake. We had to chase him round the house when it came to the time for his injection."

Mum Michelle Hudson

The fitting didn't take too much time either and when I'm wearing it I feel confident."

"When I was five, my school wouldn't monitor my glucose levels for me, which meant I had to change schools. I missed my friends but it turned out for the better as I was looked after really well there."

"Since then, I've moved up to senior school and some of the kids wanted to know more about my insulin pump which made it hard for me to forget it was there. I've made some good friends now and I don't hear any more about it which is great."

Drugs firm offers hope

A NEW drug for people with chronic kidney disease will be distributed across the world from a company based in the region.

Genzyme's Haverhill factory will be responsible for supply and distribution of Renvela.

The pharmaceuticals giant says development of the medication is a significant step in allowing patients to manage and control their blood phosphorus levels of those suffering from chronic kidney disease.

Paul Logue, vice president and general manager at Genzyme, said: "We are proud of the part we play in delivering and developing highly effective therapies for patients with life-threatening conditions such as chronic kidney disease."

"At Haverhill, we have been closely involved in developing the manufacturing capacity and processes needed to produce this vital medicine and look forward to playing our role in bringing it to patients in the UK."

New chair to speak up for tenants

A LONG-standing champion of tenants' rights has pledged to ensure residents' voices continue to be heard following her appointment as chair of Suffolk Housing Society's (SHS) Tenants' Voice committee.

Susan Feary brings with her a wealth of housing association experience after spending nearly 18 years working for SHS, which has homes in Haverhill, as scheme manager at St Mary's Close in Mildenhall.

For the past five years she has also been a society tenant after retiring to a property in Newmarket.

Mrs Feary has been a member of Tenants' Voice, which works to ensure the needs of SHS residents continue to be met, since it was established in 2008. Her election to the chair was ratified by the society's board during a meeting last week.

She said: "I have always been a champion of tenants' rights, and firmly believe every tenant should have the chance to make their voices heard."

"As such, I was delighted to accept the role of chair of Tenants' Voice."

"I've really enjoyed my time on the committee so far. It has been challenging, and I have been both surprised and pleased at the responsibilities which we have taken on. We've given our input on lots of key areas and have been involved with everything from advising on anti-social behaviour policies to awarding money to local projects from our community chest fund.

"I now want to concentrate on strengthening the society's relationship with its tenants still further, while promoting Tenants' Voice to even more of our residents."

Steve Clarke, chief executive of the society, said: "We look forward to working closely with her over the coming years as we steer the society forward."

"She brings with her a wealth of skills and experience which will prove of enormous benefit as we continue to drive through improvements on behalf of our residents."

Jump in number of vehicle plates thefts

THE theft of vehicle number plates has jumped - as criminals use them to avoid parking charges or commit serious crime.

Cambridgeshire police have issued a warning to motorists after thefts of registration plates in the county shot up by 26 per cent in the last two years.

In 2008-9, 303 number plates were stolen but that number leapt to 383 in 2009-10, figures released under the Freedom of Information Act reveal.

The plates can be used for "biking", which is also on the increase, where thieves fill up at fuel pumps before making off without paying. Registration plates are also used to avoid the London congestion charge, according to police.

But officers say the plates can be used to carry out more serious crime including robbery. Offences committed using stolen plates also include speeding and disguising a stolen vehicle.

Police urged motorists to report stolen number plates as soon as possible so they can be put into the force's automatic number plate recognition (ANPR) database. To report stolen number plates, call police on 0345 456 4564.

Cancer charity needs collection volunteers

VOLUNTEERS are needed for collections in aid of Macmillan Cancer Support, which are due to be made at Haverhill's Tesco store on October 15 and 16.

Luke Wheeler, local Macmillan fundraising manager, said: "As this is a new store we are appealing for people to give up a couple of hours of their time on the Friday or Saturday to help raise money for people affected by cancer."

"Every single day in the UK 822 people will face the life-changing news that they have cancer. Macmillan are here for these people, their families, friends and carers."

"The difference that Macmillan makes is only possible thanks to the enormous generosity of our supporters. Having done the collections in the past I know they raise a huge amount of money and awareness for Macmillan."

"They are also a great opportunity for people to meet like-minded people and get involved in fundraising in their community."

"This collection could raise up to, and possibly beyond, £1,000, but we need people to come forward and help us make a difference."

Anyone interested in helping with the collection should contact Mr Wheeler (01603) 724365.

'Give up NHS pay rises'

UNION bosses want "greedy" NHS executives to donate their salary rises of up to 24 per cent to patient care.

Executive directors at Cambridgeshire and Peterborough NHS Foundation Trust enjoyed double-figure increases last year, according to its annual report.

Chief executive Karen Bell's pay rose by £18,311 – up 11.9 per cent – in 2009-10 to £171,923. Finance director Jenny Raine's salary rose by £20,905 to £127,744, up 19.5 per cent, and six trust directors earn £100,000 or more.

The Cambridge health branch of Unison said staff were "appalled by the greed" of executives of the trust, especially as it must make cuts of £20 million to services over the next three years.

In a statement, the Unison branch, chaired by Martin Booth, said: "The excessive pay rises awarded to trust executives have angered staff who are demanding the money be donated to patient care."

"The trust has to make at least £20 million in cuts to its services. There have already been cuts in the number of hospital beds, closure of day services and a reduction in community staff."

"Despite such desperate financial straits trust board members, including Karen Bell, have been awarded increases to their six-figure salaries of up to 24 per cent."

The statement said clinical and admin staff had been experiencing pay cuts, because pay failed to keep pace with inflation, but had not complained because they understood the need for restraint.

It adds: "Staff now feel betrayed and appalled by the greed of executives."

"As a gesture of goodwill and to demonstrate solidarity, staff are asking that the board donate its total pay rise to the patient care budget."

A trust spokeswoman said executive directors' pay was set by the trust's remuneration and terms of service committee, which is made up of non-executive directors.

She said the trust offers salaries comparable to other trusts and the pay review in April 2009 was the first in four years. She added: "We are very disappointed Unison have not raised this directly with us, especially as we have a planned meeting with them on Wednesday."

The union said staff morale has "hit a new low" but Jenny Raine, acting chief executive, said she met staff and found "fantastic enthusiasm for our work and ambitions".

Pupils' playtime wish comes true

VILLAGE school youngsters have had their wish granted after asking for new play equipment.

The new playground was officially opened at Kedington Primary School, and parents were invited to come along and see it.

Headteacher Darren Woodward said: "Our proactive school council requested more challenging equipment two years ago.

"They asked our PTFA to raise £10,000 to pay for their choice and this summer, after a lot of hard work, they reached this challenging target.

"The children are very excited about this new addition to the playground."

Warning over bogus callers

POLICE have issued a warning after a spate of phone scams in Suffolk

Officers are urging Haverhill residents not to give out personal information over the phone, particularly bank details or passwords that could be used to access bank accounts.

A number of victims, or potential victims, have contacted the police after receiving calls from people claiming to be from government agencies.

In some incidents callers have claimed to be from the Ministry of Justice. The caller, who is often described as having a foreign accent, claimed that the resident is owed a sum of money, but that they will need to forward a money-gram payable to a company – sometimes stated as being located in India. They may also ask for bank details.

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

On another occasion, an individual was contacted by a man, who is described as having a foreign accent, and claimed to be from the council tax office. The caller said the victim was owed money and that he needed to provide his bank account and debit card details.

When the individual requested written confirmation of this, the caller hung up and the number from which they had called was withheld.

A police spokeswoman said: "Members of the public are reminded not to provide personal information, including bank details, to anyone over the telephone, and to contact their bank immediately if they are concerned that someone may have gained access to their bank account or bank details."

If you believe you have been the victim of fraud, contact Suffolk Police on (01473) 613500.

If you have received a similar call, or something you suspect to be a scam, contact Consumer Direct on 08454 04 05 06 or visit www.consumerdirect.gov.uk where you will find further information and advice.

Scary: above and below, children enjoy the activities on offer at the fundraising day at Home from Home nursery. CP

Youngsters head Home for first ever fun day out

YOUNGSTERS and their families enjoyed a fun day which raised around £70 for a day nursery.

The event was the first of its kind staged at the Home from Home Day Nursery in Burton End, Haverhill.

Manager Hayley Peacock said: "We're very pleased with the result. It was a great success. The money will probably be used to buy some equipment for the outdoor play area."

More than 60 visitors came to the fun day to enjoy a bouncy castle, digging for treasure, creative activities, home made cakes, face painting and the animal corner, which included a corn snake, tortoise, guinea pigs and ponies.

The nursery opened in January 2009 and has around 40 children attending every week.

For more information about the nursery call Miss Peacock on (01440) 767805.

Writing's on the wall for town

A COMMUNITY campaign has given people a chance to share their views about the area they live in.

The campaign, launched by Ipswich Building Society, saw more than 40 comments posted onto a 'Wonderwall' when it visited Haverhill market.

Many of the comments praised the county's beautiful countryside and friendly people.

One resident said of the town: "Great place to bring up children, small friendly community and lots of accessible places to visit."

Another comment read: "Haverhill offered the opportunity for a house of my own. There is no better place to live."

Paul Millar, branch manager of the building Society in Haverhill, said: "Throughout the day we were speaking to lots of different people, all of whom said they loved living in Suffolk."

"It has been great to hear of the genuine affection people have for our county."

An online Wonderwall has been created at www.facebook.com/SuffolkWonderwall

The results of the survey will be published later this year.

RESIDENTIAL care can sometimes seem like the only option for elderly people requiring day-to-day help, but local business Greenfield Care offers quality care to people wanting to stay in their own homes.

Company owner and Manager Glenn Evans, who has a background of 10 years working in care, set up the business at the start of the year, feeling there was a need for a quality home care service in the area.

He says: "Home visits do a lot to alleviate loneliness; I'd say almost half of the clients just want to see a friendly face in the morning, especially if their family can't come to visit much. It's such a rewarding job to cheer them up and make them a cup of tea." Greenfield Care offers a wide range of services, including personal care and hygiene, household duties, meal preparation, shopping duties, respite care and they can also help to alleviate anxiety and problems with social functioning, by taking clients out for social occasions or just some fresh air. They can also offer pet care, and they like to encourage customers to accompany them on a scooter or wheelchair when walking the dog.

Glenn says: "Home care is so much nicer than being in a residential home, because not only is it promoting their independence, but it means clients get one-to-one attention, rather than feeling like they're just a number on a list."

Quality care to the highest standard: In your own home.

People behave differently in their own homes, they seem healthier and happier. It's just much more dignified."

Typical visits will involve activities such as assisting a client in and out of bed, helping them to dress, collecting the papers, vacuuming, shopping and making lots of cups of tea. Carers are available from an hour each day, to full-time live-in care.

You needn't worry about letting a stranger into your home – Greenfield staff are trained to the highest standard. All staff are thoroughly screened, insured, CRB (criminal record bureau) checked at an enhanced level, must supply a full work history and their references are checked in depth. Once employed by Greenfield, all staff undergo an in depth induction programme in accordance with the regulations from the Care Quality Commission.

Glenn adds: "It's a much cheaper solution than residential care, and clients are always happier in their own environment.

Having a loved one at home can also affect the client's family. Without help, most families have to give up a lot of time out of their own lives to look after their relative. Sometimes support from a company like Greenfield Care is all that's needed to put a family's minds at rest. Even if one visit per day alleviates their worries and frees up their time a bit, then it's worth it."

Greenfield Care covers the areas of Halstead, Braintree, Sudbury, Haverhill, Saffron Walden and the surrounding villages.

Greenfield Care: Helping you enjoy home life.

Villagers hope to grow wildlife idea

A NEW community wildlife scheme was launched when village school pupils and a local author planted a tree.

Pupils from Hundon Primary School planted the tree in the school grounds with author Mike Chinnery, who lives nearby.

Parents, teachers, pupils and local villagers have formed a committee to establish the Woodland and Wildspace initiative, which looks to find a piece of land for the local community to care for.

The pupils learnt key skills to care for the first tree, including mulching and trimming, and then wrote their wishes for the future and tied them to the branches.

Charlotte Parker-Hall, a committee member for the scheme, said: "It is really valuable for the children to be involved at an early age in caring for their local surroundings."

"The wildlife space is at the heart of the community. We look to farmers to give out unused land so that the locals can care and manage it as a community project."

Kim Munro, a Hundon resident who launched the initiative, said: "It's very much early days and we are getting our strength from being linked with the school.

"We want to establish English woods in this farming area and be in control of our green space."

"There is no community space, that's what we are trying to create. We are applying for grants at the moment."

Searches for a suitable site for the wildlife space are still ongoing, but the village committee has formed an affiliation with the Green Light Trust in the hope more grant applications can be made.

The Green Light Trust has assisted around 60 other Wildspace projects across East Anglia.

Women's group offers support to newcomers

A NEW forum for women may be formed to help newcomers learn more about a town.

The Haverhill International Women's Group has arranged a meeting on Wednesday, October

Heart and lungs transplant gives Becky new lease of life

Support: Becky with her mum Sue.

Picture: Warren Gunn 679090

BECKY Conroy is a busy girl. On top of working full-time, she has a packed social life: among other things, the 31-year-old favours shopping, clubbing and hot holidays (a trip to Florida with friends is on the cards). And she is also in the throes of organising a glamorous burlesque ball for charity. What with one thing and another, it's all go.

Yet this time a year ago, Becky was living a very different life. Struggling for every breath – and plagued by a cough so severe it made her physically sick – she was literally a shadow of her current self: a painfully thin size 4, she weighed less than six stone. Weak and perpetually exhausted, it was a battle simply to get off the sofa. “I was asleep most of the time,” remembers Becky. “I managed to drag myself into work, but that was all; quite often, I’d come home and go straight to sleep.

BY ALICE RYAN

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

“Looking back, it’s just amazing how much things have changed. Nowadays I do everything: I can go shopping, go clubbing, even walk my dog. I feel like I’ve been given a whole new lease of life.”

Having battled cystic fibrosis since birth – a deadly disease which left her lungs clogged, scarred and almost useless – Becky was given a life-saving transplant operation in January. Surgeons at Papworth Hospital actually performed a tandem op: Becky was given both new heart and lungs (lungs transplant more efficiently with the heart alongside), and her healthy heart was passed on to another patient – a 15-year-old boy.

“I’ve been trying to work out what I want to say to the family of my donor,” says Becky. “I’ve had this card for months but I still haven’t written it: I don’t know where to start... I just want to say the biggest thank-you possible. It must have been very hard for them to sign those papers when they’d just lost someone so close to them. But not only did they save my life, they saved the person who was given my heart: it was a life-saving – and life-changing – operation for both of us.”

Sitting down at the dining table with her mum, Sue, at the family home in Alconbury Weston, Becky flicks through some old family photos: then a blonde and bubbly toddler, she smiles out of every picture.

“Becky wasn’t diagnosed until she was coming up for a year old,” recounts Sue. “She was always getting a cough; we were constantly going to the doctor.

“Then one day the doctor asked me how long the coughs had been going on... We were sent to Addenbrooke’s for tests and that’s when they discovered she had cystic fibrosis.”

Cystic fibrosis (CF for short) is caused by a single faulty gene that controls the movement of salt in the body. The internal organs become choked with thick, sticky mucus, resulting in infections and inflammation which make it hard both to breathe and digest food.

For a baby to be born with cystic fibrosis, both parents must be carriers of the faulty CF gene. Where both parents carry the faulty gene, each child has a one in four chance of having CF, a two in four chance of being a carrier and a one in four chance of not having any CF genes at all.

“My husband John and I are both carriers,” explains Sue. “That’s why we decided not to have any more children: Becky’s an only one. It was devastating when she was diagnosed. “I can’t imagine losing one child, let alone losing one and knowing my second child was going to go the same way...”

Aside from regular check-ups, daily physio (leaning over a special curved mattress and being patted firmly on the back, to clear the build-up of phlegm from the lungs) and a prescription of creon (a mixture of enzymes, designed to aid digestion in people with pancreatic deficiencies: a CF patient’s pancreas also becomes congested with mucus), Becky led a pretty normal childhood.

“I never thought of myself as being any

Saving lives

THOUSANDS of lives are saved each and every year thanks to organ donation. In the UK, between April 2008 and March 2009:

- 3,513 organ transplants were carried out, thanks to the generosity of 1,853 donors
- 977 lives were saved in the UK through a heart, lung, liver or combined heart/lungs, liver/kidney, liver/pancreas, heart/kidney or liver/kidney/pancreas transplant
- A total of 2,536 patients received a kidney, pancreas or combined kidney/pancreas transplant. A further 2,712 people had their sight restored through a cornea transplant
- A record number of donors were living donors: 954 people donated a kidney or a segment of their liver
- At the end of March 2009, 7,877 patients were listed as actively waiting for a transplant in the UK

For more information – or to register as an organ donor – call 0300 123 2323 or visit www.uktransplant.org.uk different from my friends," says Becky, who lived a full school life, even playing sports. "And I certainly rebelled as a teenager, just like everyone else."

By the age of 20, Becky's health had taken a sharp downward turn. "She'd been a bit naughty," remembers Sue. "She wasn't looking after herself properly and didn't always take her creon with her meals; she wasn't living at home by then, so I couldn't nag her. She lost an awful lot of weight and started getting more and more chest infections. The doctors gave her a talking to: they said if she carried on, she'd need a transplant sooner rather than later."

"That was the shock she needed – after that she did everything she was supposed to. But she carried on getting chest infections. Up until then, she'd hardly been in hospital at all; by the summer of last year, she was being admitted every few weeks."

Becky's lung function plummeted to 30 per cent. Describing herself 'like an old woman', she was so frail she could hardly walk.

"Growing up with CF was pretty scary because I knew I was inevitably going to end up either really ill or dead," admits Becky, who now lives in Peterborough with her partner, Stuart Dawks, and their Tibetan terrier, Tilly. "But I never thought I would get so ill that soon: in my head I thought I'd get to about 30 and start going downhill then..."

In the October of last year, doctors at Papworth said it was time to think about a transplant. The endless infections had caused irreparable scarring to her lungs. "They described it as 'a window of opportunity'," remembers Becky. "But they don't make the decision for you: you have to decide to go on the organ waiting list yourself."

Becky, who credits Stuart, her family and friends with providing 'incredible support: I couldn't have done this without them', admits she had mixed feelings about the surgery. "I'm a complete wuss when it comes to pain and I was really worried about the recovery," she explains.

But, after a whole raft of tests, Becky joined the waiting list. And, a remarkably short four weeks later, she got the call from Papworth – to say a donor heart and lungs had been found.

After almost 12 hours on the operating table, Becky was taken into intensive care. "It was horrible seeing her all covered in tubes," Sue says. "And they kept her sedated for ages."

"I love my sleep," grins Becky. "So I had no objections to that."

Although she'd just been through major surgery and was dosed up on all manner of drugs, Becky says she felt healthier from the moment she came round.

"I was used to having a cough 24/7 and all of a sudden I didn't need to cough. And my breathing had always been really quick and shallow: I almost had to learn to breathe normally. I was really happy for myself – and really happy at the thought my heart had helped someone else too."

Regulations mean that all donors and recipients remain anonymous. But liaison workers at the hospital can pass on messages of thanks, hence Becky's determination to send a card to her donor's family.

The road to recovery was, says Becky, both long and winding. She loves her job (at a civil engineering company in Peterborough) and continued to work right up to her surgery but, in the wake of the op, she was forced to take five months off work. "It was driving me mad by the end but, when I first came out of hospital, I was so weak I couldn't go upstairs to bed – I slept on the sofa for weeks. And I had to have everything done for me, I couldn't even wash myself."

But, thanks to her own determination, the care of others and a veritable cocktail of medication, Becky is now feeling fitter, healthier and happier than ever. Back to an ideal weight of 8st 7lb, she is positively glowing.

Yet Becky knows the future is uncertain: transplants rarely last forever.

"I've been given this new lease of life but you never know how long you're going to have. I could be dead next year. That's a pretty scary thought. We were told that heart and lung transplants last for six years on average and I don't think you can have another one. But I know one girl whose transplant is 10 years old and still going strong. All you can do is think positive – and make the absolute most of the time you've got."

Becky is holding a fundraising ball – complete with dinner, dancing, a burlesque show and a luxury raffle – on Saturday, October 16 at the Marriott Hotel in Huntingdon. Hoping to raise more than £4,000, Becky will split the proceeds between Papworth Hospital and the CF Trust.

Your last chance to share in £15k grant

THERE are just a few days left to apply for grant funding from our brilliant £15,000 charity giveaway.

Along with our sister paper, the Cambridge News, we've teamed up with Barclays Money Skills to make a real difference to the community.

If you are a member of a local charity, you can apply for a cash grant to help pay for a costed project – but you've only got until Monday, October 11 to get your application in.

Whether it's a special trip you want to organise, or some equipment that you need, we want to hear about it.

Simply fill in the form on this page – or visit www.cambridge-news.co.uk – and click on the Barclays Money Skills logo at the bottom of the homepage to apply. Please note the exclusions listed.

informed and impartial financial decisions, so we would encourage applicants to consider how they would use their funding to help people to manage money.

Perhaps members of your group could be encouraged to help cost a project to help them develop their money skills.

Who can apply?

Applications must come from registered charities supporting the community in our patch. The grants CANNOT be used to support the following:

- Political parties or political bodies
- Promotion of religious beliefs (we do consider projects led by religious organisations provided the whole community benefits)
- Sponsorship of individuals
- Rotary, Lions Clubs and other third-party giving organisations
- Hospital costs

- Medical charities including medical treatment and research
- Capital appeals (for example, for buildings)
- Educational institutions (unless the donation provides direct support to a disadvantaged group)
- The arts (unless the donation provides direct support to a disadvantaged group)
- Microfinance loan fund capital (donations can be used to support the establishment and operation of community-motivated microfinance programmes, but can not be used as capital for on-lending direct to clients).

Once we have the applications, a shortlist of successful applicants will be drawn up and readers will be able to help those charities receive grant funding by collecting tokens printed in the paper.

Marie-Claire Berreen, Barclays community investment manager for the Eastern region, said: "We are using our financial expertise to support people who need it most."

"This includes access to banking, skills to manage money, where to go for help if you are facing financial difficulties and building a secure financial future through enterprise."

Thousands join read-in

A SUMMER reading challenge for Cambridgeshire schoolchildren attracted 7,000 young bookworms.

The Space Hop contest drew about 1,000 more youngsters than last year, and some 4,000 will receive medals and certificates for getting through at least six books during the break.

Award-winning author Paul Shipton was at Arbury Court Library in Cambridge on Thursday, handing out the prizes.

This year more than 70 teenage volunteers were also recruited to help staff and children at the libraries.

Cllr Sir Peter Brown, Cambridgeshire County Council's communities boss, said he was delighted by the figures.

He said: "Library services are crucial in giving children a good start in life."

"I am delighted that so many children took up the challenge and enjoyed reading and looking at books this summer, especially over the holiday period."

Children were encouraged to read lots by being rewarded with a colourful membership card, foldout poster and stickers to put on their poster for every book they read.

Deadline for Bridge cash

THOUSANDS of pounds are pouring in from Bridge the Gap walkers but the deadline to return sponsorship money is now looming.

A record-breaking number of walkers – more than 2,500 – took part in Cambridge's premier charity walk on September 12.

They enjoyed the picturesque five-mile tour around the city and colleges and their efforts will raise money for two good causes.

Sponsorship money should be submitted by Friday, October 15.

Now in its ninth year, Bridge the Gap organisers hope to smash last year's £38,000. The money will benefit the Arthur Rank Hospice Charity and Press Relief, the Cambridge News' community fund.

The top fundraisers in several categories will earn themselves prizes. The Cambridge Building Society was the main sponsor of the walk.

The address for sponsorship money is Bridge the Gap, Press Relief, Cambridge News, Winship Road, Milton CB24 6PP.

Geeks versus chavs for charity

SIXTH form students at Haverhill's Samuel Ward Arts and Technology College raised £135 by staging a 'geeks and chavs' day.

Laura Mack, who helped organise the event said: "The geeks outnumber the chavs with students dressed in tartan, checked shirts buttoned tightly to the top and braces holding the trousers up high with bright white socks poking out of the bottom and, of course, thick-rimmed glasses.

"The chavs were walking around with a Vicky Pollard attitude, velvet-clad baggy tracksuits, hoodies combined with hats and reams of gold necklaces and fistfuls of gold rings. The girls had orange tangoed faces to top off their outfits."

Similar fund-raising events are held monthly for charities and sixth form resources.

Money raised from this event went to sixth form resources.

Outnumbered: some of the colourful clothing creations put together by sixth formers as part of a charity dress up day.

Comedy double bill from the Marlowe

The Marlowe Society returns to the ADC Theatre, Cambridge, next week with a double bill of English renaissance comedy.

The Alchemist by Ben Jonson and The Complete Works of William Shakespeare: Abridged, adapted by the Reduced Shakespeare Company, are being staged until Saturday.

Before Friday evening's performances, Sir Ian McKellen will join Dr Abigail Rokison and John Haidar, the director of The Alchemist, in discussing Jonson and the contemporary theatre, in a fantastic opportunity to hear from one of the Marlowe's most illustrious graduates.

In The Alchemist, the action begins when Lovewit leaves his townhouse in Blackfriars to escape the threat of plague in London, leaving a single servant, Jeremy Butler, to care for his house in his absence.

Jeremy hooks up with a con artist, Subtle, and a prostitute, Dol Common. Employing a spectacular array of characters and costumes these three conniving scoundrels entice, seduce and hustle their way through Ben Jonson's most colourful and eclectic collection of characters, with hilarious results. A satirical tour de force, Jonson's biting witty critique of humanity is as relevant today as it was 400 years ago.

In The Complete Works of William Shakespeare: Abridged, a troupe of three performers will take on the ultimate live comedy challenge: performing all 37 of the bard's plays in just 57 minutes.

Such a whirlwind tour relies as much on improvisation as it does the script. According to The Today Show, "If you like Shakespeare, you'll like this show. If you hate Shakespeare, you'll love this show!", while the New York Times proclaims that the show is "Pithier than HILARIOUS: a scene from The Alchemist on stage at the ADC Theatre next week.

Python. Irresistible."

The Marlowe Society has a special relationship with the ADC Theatre; it was here that the very first Marlowe performance was staged – Justin Brooke's 1907 production of Marlowe's Doctor Faustus.

The world-famous Marlowe Society boasts alumni such as Peter Hall, Trevor Nunn, Sam Mendes, Sir Ian McKellen, Derek Jacobi and Simon Russell Beale.

■ The Alchemist will be staged from Tuesday to Saturday at 7.45pm with a Saturday matinée at 2.30pm. Tickets £10-£6.

■ The Complete Works of William Shakespeare: Abridged, will be performed from Wednesday to Saturday at 11pm. Tickets £7-£5. In Conversation with Sir Ian McKellen will be on Friday at 6.45pm. Tickets £5.

Grouchy man full of laughs

RICH Hall has the ability to make everything from sandwiches to Barack Obama seem immensely funny.

Seen almost as regularly on QI as Stephen Fry, his deadpan observations have secured him a huge fan base and his live shows have become a regular feature of the Edinburgh Fringe.

As well as his many panel show and comedy roadshow appearances, Hall recently starred in the critically-acclaimed BBC4 documentary, How the West Was Lost, which explored the decline in popularity of the western, America's most quintessential movie genre. There's sure to be plenty more reflections on life in the States during his latest tour, delivered with that signature deadpan grouchiness we've come to love. See Rich Hall at Cambridge Corn Exchange, tomorrow at 8pm. Tickets are £15 from (01223) 357851 / www.cornex.co.uk

Spot-on singers

THE King's Singers are performing at the University Concert Hall in West Road, Cambridge, next Saturday, October 16.

One of the most celebrated vocal groups, the singers are well-known for their spot-on intonation, impeccable vocal blend, flawless articulation and incisive timing.

The programme will include the famous Beati Quorum by CV Stanford.

Tickets at £18 are available from Jan Johnson, Sally Anns Shop, Mill Road, Cambridge, on (01223) 316161 or 07931 453855.

WORLD RECORD BID: The Osiligi Maasai Warriors are appearing in concert at St George's Church.

Warriors aim to finish concert on a high

Maasai warriors will be leaping onto the stage for a concert and a world record attempt at St George's Church in Cambridge on Saturday.

The Osiligi Maasai Warriors, who are on a tour of the East of England, are stunning performers with their harmony, rhythm and songs and are sensational to watch with their jumping, for which they are renowned.

They have chosen Cambridge to make a world record attempt for standing jumps. Officials will be on hand at the end of the performance to measure both the height they achieve and the repetition frequency.

The Osiligi warriors were founded in 2007.

The troupe of eight, six men and two women, are raising money for the benefit of their community and families in their home village of Kisamis, 30 miles southwest of Nairobi. The word 'osiligi' means hope and that is what the troupe want to bring to their people who still face a hard life with high infant mortality rates and a life expectancy of only 43.

See the Osiligi Maasai Warriors at St George's Church, Chesterfield Road, Cambridge, on Saturday at 7.30pm.

Tickets at £10, £8 OAPs, £6 children, are available from Cambridge Corn Exchange on (01223) 357851.

Album saw duo up for award

HANNAH James and Sam Sweeney have been called "two of the brightest young stars of the folk scene".

Recently nominated for the Horizon Award at the BBC Radio 2 Folk Awards, Hannah and Sam will be appearing at the Cambridge Folk Club at the Golden Hind in Milton Road, Cambridge, tomorrow night.

Although the duo are new, they're both experienced performers; they've not only been in the established four-piece band Kerfuffle since their teens, but Hannah now performs with the dynamic Demon Barber Roadshow, and Sam has played with none other than Bellowhead.

Their debut album Catches and Gleees, released in August 2009, led to their BBC Radio 2 Folk Awards nomination.

In support are The Willows with their unique sound, influenced by their love of folk, country, bluegrass and Americana.

Entry is £9 on the door, £8 in advance, and £7 for members. Visit www.cambridgefolkclub.org or phone (01638) 603986.

The Death And Life Of Charlie

The big film

MADE IN DAGENHAM (15)
112 mins

THE 1960s were a time of great change: America mourned the assassination of John F Kennedy, the Civil Rights Movement gained momentum, and man took his first steps on the moon.

For the 187 women machinists employed at Ford's Dagenham assembly plant in 1968, it was a decade when a single act of rebellion changed history.

Disgusted by their lowly standing, compared to male workers, the women went on strike to protest against unequal pay and sexual discrimination.

The subsequent power struggle with the board of the plant established a precedent for women around the world.

The creative team behind Calendar Girls draws inspiration from this true story to craft another hilarious and heartwarming tale of female empowerment.

Blessed with a powerful performance from Sally Hawkins that should be a prime contender for end-of-year awards, Made In Dagenham dismisses the notion that Essex girls only serve a purpose as the butt of cheap jokes.

As the men in Nigel Cole's film learn to their cost, it is these strong-willed heroines who end up smiling.

Mother of two Rita O'Grady (Hawkins) works in the Ford plant with good friend Connie (Geraldine James), who is a union rep alongside Alfred Passingham (Bob Hoskins).

When the management, led by Peter Hopkins (Rupert Graves), shows preference to the male workers, Rita proves that she is no pushover, telling Hopkins: "Rights not privileges. It's that bloody easy, it really is."

When her words fall on deaf ears, Rita risks her marriage to plant worker Eddie (Daniel Mays) by persuading the women to strike and take their grievances to Secretary of State for Employment, Barbara Castle (Miranda Richardson).

"If this woman gets what she wants, we'll have to do this around the world," rues American executive Robert Tooley (Richard Schiff), who travels to Dagenham to defuse the situation.

Meanwhile, Rita finds support from Hopkins's wife Lisa (Rosamund Pike) and fellow machinists Brenda (Andrea Riseborough) and Andrea (Jaime Winstone).

Made In Dagenham evokes the period perfectly with a toe-tapping soundtrack and groovy fashions of the era.

Hawkins delivers a bravura, emotionally wrought performance as a woman who risks everything for what she believes in, telling Ms Castle, "We ain't politicians. We're working women, and so are you!"

Cole's film is laden with earthy humour and has a massive emotional kick in the final reel that begs favourable comparisons with the Oscar-winning Norma Rae starring Sally Field.

Gourmet veg stand the big budget trial

WHEN you pick up your fine beans which have been flown all the way from Kenya, do you consider the air miles and freshness of the produce?

Similarly, do high prices of gourmet veg steer you away from items such as artichokes, pattypan squash and tender-stem broccoli?

With this in mind, Which? Gardening, the Consumers' Association magazine, trialled 22 expensive-to-buy or unusual vegetables which will all grow in a typical British summer without protection and produce reasonable yields.

The veg, planted in the summer of 2009, were grown in designated blocks, so researchers could work out the value of the crop by the square metre, compared with the price of each vegetable in the supermarket.

Some gourmet crops are so unusual that you won't generally find them in the shops – think purple carrots, yellow beetroot and round courgettes – and yet it's possible to grow them all economically here.

Triallists grew the courgette 'Floridor', which bears round yellow fruits and should produce

by Hannah Stephenson

up to 30 round courgettes a year if picked regularly. They found that the cost of buying a standard long green courgette in the shops was £1.80 per kg, while the 'Floridor' yield produced 8.9kg per square metre, worth £16.

Courgettes should be sown indoors in April to May, planted out May to June and harvested throughout the summer, until October.

Fine beans are expensive as they are mostly grown abroad and flown in, but in this country you can have a summer crop for far less money. In the trial, 'Safari' – a typical fine dwarf French bean – was grown. They are quick to grow, typically taking 10-12 weeks from sowing to harvest, and produce a lot if you continue picking the pods. It's worth making successional sowings so you can harvest the beans through summer and autumn. Cost to buy in the shops was £8 a kg, while the yield in the trial produced 6kg per square metre, worth £48.

Other veg which were worth the work included Jerusalem artichoke 'Fuseau'. You only need to plant a couple of tubers to produce a good harvest, but remember it's a perennial and if you leave any part of a tuber in the ground it will re-grow. The tall plants may need support in windy gardens. The cost to buy in the shops came to around £5.20 per kg, while the triallists' yield per square metre was 14kg, worth £72.

Beetroot, spinach, Florence fennel, Kale 'Cavolo Nero', an old variety, watercress and 'Banana' shallots, a seed-sown variety producing a single large bulb with a very strong flavour, all fared well in the trial, producing harvests which were much more economical than buying the produce from supermarkets.

Only three crops failed to live up to expectations, with researchers rating them poor value for the space they occupied. Grown in the same way as conventional cauliflowers, Romanesco cauliflower produced very small heads and were only marginally cheaper to grow than if you bought them in the shops.

Globe artichokes and sea kale also proved disappointing for the space they take up, although the artichokes made spectacular ornamental plants.

The full report is in the October issue of Which? Gardening. For a free copy of the Which? Grow Your Own Veg and a free packet of Tuscan salad seeds call 0800 389 88 55 and quote VEG134F.

GOURMET VEG: More expensive vegetables have been checked out by Which? left, the dainty and decorative Chinese Lantern add a touch of colour.

BEST OF THE BUNCH Physalis (Chinese Lantern)

These dainty-looking perennials, also known as winter cherries, are grown mainly for their unusual decorative orange-red, lantern-shaped seedheads which encase the edible fruits and appear in the autumn.

They like to be planted in shady, dry areas under trees and shrubs where little else will grow, rather than in borders where they can spread rapidly and over-run neighbouring plants with their roots.

Many gardeners also harvest the lanterns for indoor decoration, cutting the fruiting stems as they turn to orange and hanging them upside down in an airing cupboard to dry.

Popular varieties include P. alkekengi 'Franchetii', while named varieties such as 'Gigantea', which grows to 90cm (3ft), and 'Variegata', may be available from specialists.

They're sitting pretty

A flamboyant and unique furniture company has opened its doors in the region.

The Utterly Gorgeous Chair Company, based in Suffolk, is a two-person business. Jennifer seeks out the quirky, unusual and generally vintage furniture and sources wonderful, flamboyant designer fabrics to match them. Meanwhile, Andrea uses her 25 years of upholstery expertise to bring each unique item to life.

Fans of the TV series The Tudors and the recent Sherlock Holmes film with Robert Downey Jr will have witnessed her skills. She provided some of the furniture for both these productions.

The stars have also enjoyed taking Andrea's skills home as her furniture graces the homes of several celebrities.

With so much mass-produced furniture being churned out, it's refreshing to see old and sometimes neglected pieces being brought back to vibrant life. Not only is this an environmentally sound undertaking, but it also reinvents them as heirlooms, as they become treasured items to pass down through families for the pleasure of future generations.

Each of the company's pieces is a "one off". These are chairs with attitude! For details contact 07717832062, or you can send an email to info@theutterlygorgeouschaircompany.co.uk, or visit www.theutterlygorgeouschaircompany.co.uk.

Letting firm makes finals for awards

LOCAL Haverhill Letting and Estate Agency CXG Property Services has received nominations and reached the finals of the Landlord and Letting awards for 2010.

There are three categories for the awards: Innovation, Property Sourcing and Letting Agent.

CXG say they understand that their firm are the only company to be shortlisted as a finalist in all three categories.

This year, there were four times as many entries as in 2009 and the judging panel praised all finalists for their extremely high quality entries, saying: "CXG can be extremely proud of themselves for reaching this stage."

The company has notified the Chief Executive of St Edmundsbury Council and the local MP, who they expect will be delighted to see a local small business being nominated for such a prestigious award.

Director Robin Pilley said: "I am extremely proud of all the staff at CXG as these are difficult times for everybody in the business community. . . . It shows that the ethos of CXG – hard work, dedication and delivering on our promises – has been recognised. We hope to continue to grow and assist in bringing prosperity and employment opportunities to the town."

Car makers build new road map

AN astonishing number of car manufacturers have used the opening of the Paris Motor Show this week to unveil new vehicles using a number of different engine formats, writes Mike Scialom.

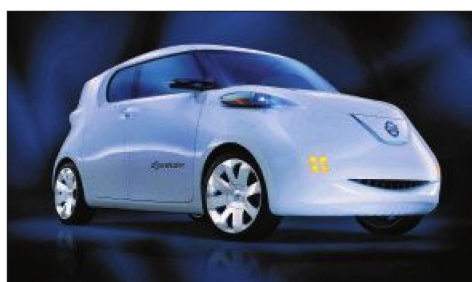

Volvo, Skoda, Audi, Kia, Nissan and Jaguar all have startling new designs lined up, with launches starting next year.

One of the real live wires at the 2010 Paris Motor Show will undoubtedly be the Audi e-tron Spyder, a two-seat open sports car study with plug-in hybrid drive capable of delivering 128mpg economy and 59g/km emissions from its 296bhp twin-turbo V6 TDI engine and twin electric motors.

The car accelerates to

AUDI E-TRON: Electric.

THE NISSAN TOWNPOD: Inner-city concept.

62mph in just 4.4 seconds, and top speed is electronically governed at 155mph.

The open sports car can also drive on electric power only over distances of up to 31 miles at speeds of up to 38mph.

Jaguar has revealed a stunning range-extended electric supercar concept car, the C-X75, involving gas turbine technology.

The C-X75 – pictured above – is a 205mph four-wheel drive supercar capable of running in purely electric (zero tailpipe emissions) mode for 68 miles on a six-hour domestic plug-in charge. The innovative, lightweight micro gas-turbines are also capable of very quickly and efficiently recharging the lithium-ion batteries, giving the car a theoretical range of 560 miles.

This remarkable range-extension system is a result of Jaguar's research and engineers adopting a clean-sheet approach to the question of powering the supercars of the future. The C-X75's gas turbine technology is the very latest evolution of a pioneering British technology developed in partnership with Bladon Jets. A miniaturised turbine blade – the first viable axial-flow micro-turbine – increases the compression and efficiency of micro gas-turbines to the point at which they can be viewed as a realistic power source. Each of the micro gas-turbines weighs just 35kg and produces 70kW of power at a constant 80,000rpm.

The energy created by the turbines and stored in the batteries is transmitted to the road using four independent electric motors. Using individual motors has benefits in terms of weight-saving and distribution, packaging and efficiency. Each motor weighs just 50kg but produces 145Kw (195bhp) of power and an astonishing combined total torque output of 1,600Nm (1,180lb ft).

Skoda's first-ever electric-powered vehicle, the Green E Line concept, is based on the Skoda Octavia Combi.

The electricity for the Octavia Green E Line is supplied by a modern lithium-ion battery. With a range-per-charge of 77 miles, the Skoda Octavia Green E Line's battery has almost no impact on the volume of the passenger and luggage compartments.

Volvo president and CEO Stefan Jacob said at the opening of the Paris Motor Show that the future for Volvo lies in electric cars. "We will set a standard in the industry," Jacoby said, revealing that the Volvo C30 DRiVE Electric will go into production in 2011.

Jacoby also stated that Volvo will have a plug-in hybrid on offer in 2012, combining an electric power with a diesel hybrid power train. The Volvo plug-in hybrid will have ultra-low CO2 emissions, below 50g/km.

Finally both Nissan and Kia unveiled inner-city concepts – the Nissan Townpod and the Kia POP – which run on electricity alone.

All-new Alhambra

NEW from the wheels up, Seat's roomy MPV offers plenty of space for leisure, business, and hobbies fulfilling the expectations of family life, as well as the demands of high-mileage business drivers.

The all-new Alhambra combines a high degree of usability with sporting character in true Seat fashion. Its sophisticated running gear and extensive hi-tech equipment come together with a choice, in the UK, of three engines that combine powerful performance with outstanding efficiency.

The 2.0 TDI with 137bhp achieves 51.4mpg – an absolute best in the segment. As a result, this Alhambra bears the new Seat logo reserved for extremely low-emission models – E-Ecomotive.

Furthermore, the 147bhp 1.4 TSI and the 166bhp 2.0 TDI both feature Ecomotive technology and boast impressive fuel economy with the Stop/Start system and brake energy regeneration function.

THE ALL-NEW SEAT ALHAMBRA: Lots of room.

Lower costs for new C-Max

FORD'S new C-Max and Grand C-Max customers will enjoy lower ownership costs thanks to improved residual values, lower insurance and CO2 ratings and enhanced fuel economy.

The new C-Max and Grand C-Max, on sale in the UK next month, will achieve savings of up to £800 a year compared with today's model.

Residual values have increased over one year/20,000 miles by up to 15 per cent and over three years/60,000 miles by up to 10 per cent.

This month's CAP Monitor set residual values over 12 months for the stylish and spacious five-seat C-Max 1.6-litre 105PS Zetec at £9,475 and the 2.0-litre TDCi 140PS Titanium at £13,150 – an increase of over 14 per cent or around £2,000 over the outgoing equivalents. Similar residual value increases are delivered by the family-friendly seven seat Grand C-Max.

On the new ABI

1-50 insurance scale, C-Max and Grand C-Max ratings have reduced by up to five points versus the outgoing model, starting from just 11E for the C-Max 1.6-litre 105PS Zetec to 20E for the Grand C-Max 2.0-litre TDCi 140PS Titanium. These improvements are supported by the standard fit T h a t c h a m category one alarm, Ford's Intelligent Protection System and six airbags across the C-Max and Grand C-Max ranges.

Customers will be offered a choice of three petrol engines including the efficient new 1.6-litre Ford Ecoboost direct-injection petrol engine and two completely updated 1.6- and 2.0-litre Duratorq diesel engines.

The four-cylinder 150PS Ecoboost petrol powertrain achieves CO2 emissions of 154g/km and combined fuel consumption of 42.8 mpg. Compared with the 145PS 2.0-litre petrol engine in the previous model this cuts emissions and improves fuel economy by around 20 per cent.

The Grand C-Max with updated 1.6-litre TDCi achieves class leading emissions of 129g/km CO2 and a combined fuel economy of 57.7mpg.

Kevin Griffin, fleet director, Ford of Britain, said: "The C-Max has evolved to offer MPV customers the full flexibility of a seven seater with twin rear sliding doors. The five-seat C-Max will appeal to those customers seeking sporty styling coupled with extra space. Not only are they both competitively priced, but lower wholelife costs will make them an attractive proposition for retail and fleet customers."

The C-Max 2.0 Titanium TDCi 140PS 6 speed manual delivers an impressive 55.4 mpg combined and average CO2 emissions of 134 g/km. Compared to the outgoing model, this delivers annual company national insurance savings of £126, personal tax savings of £383 and lower fuel costs over 60,000 of £733 based on 125 pence per litre.

Ford's all-new C-Max will go on sale in October, priced from just £16,745 for the C-Max Zetec and £18,745 for the Grand C-Max Zetec.

Volkswagen delight at Polo and Golf's MPG Marathon success

VOLKSWAGEN is pleased to report a successful performance in this month's 2010 ALD Automotive/Total ECO 10 MPG Marathon.

Two vehicles were entered, both of which demonstrated impressive economy, thanks to a combination of engineering, technology, and careful driving.

The Golf GTI with 2.0-litre 210 PS engine and DSG automatic gearbox has a manufacturer combined figure of 38.2mpg. Driven by David Madgwick and Ashleigh White, it achieved 55.63mpg – a 45.62 per cent improvement – to claim the best percentage improvement accolade.

Meanwhile, the Polo BlueMotion – a vehicle more traditionally associated with low fuel consumption and driven by Andrew Andersz and Alyson Marlow – was named runner-up in the best 'overall MPG' category. The Polo returned 89.22mpg during the event, representing an 8.52 per cent improvement over the GOLF: Volkswagen's 55.63mpg success story.

WINNER: The 89.22mpg Volkswagen Polo BlueMotion passes the winning post at the MPG Marathon.

manufacturer's combined economy figure of 80.7mpg.

The Polo BlueMotion has a three-cylinder 1.2-litre 72bhp common-rail diesel engine and a raft of economy measures, including aerodynamic and gearing modifications, Stop/Start system, low rolling resistance tyres, and battery regeneration. Despite this, it is a practical five-seater and retains all same design, quality, and practical attributes of other Polo models. Winner of the best 'overall MPG' category was the Smart Fortwo.

Thirty-five vehicles took part in this year's 400-mile, two-day challenge that covered a testing combination of A and B roads, as well as the motorways of Warwickshire, Worcestershire, Herefordshire, Shropshire, Oxfordshire, and Buckinghamshire.

Only six, including the Polo BlueMotion, achieved more than 80mpg.

Paris Motor Show is chock full of ideas

STUNNING new electric cars get the hard sell at this year's Paris Motor Show – but makers are also out to prove there's still lots of showroom mileage in models that employ the humble internal combustion engine.

With a host of electric vehicles at the annual Paris motoring extravaganza majoring on striking design and innovative technology to help kick-start sales over the coming months, manufacturers are demonstrating they still have a passion for petrol and diesel power.

Infiniti raised temperatures in the luxury cabriolet stakes with its 3.7-litre Performance Line G Cabrio Concept, which gives full rein to the firm's talent for producing fine sporting cars.

Finished in black with a rich red leather interior, the 333bhp G

Cabrio Concept could make it into production, and Infiniti will announce any decision after the Paris Show closes its doors on October 17.

The premium Japanese marque is also expanding on its proposed electric vehicle (EV) – which will reach the market in 2013 – while in the French capital. A sketch of the battery-powered Infiniti was recently revealed by the firm's senior vice president, Andy Palmer, at an event in London.

Ferrari presented its limited-edition 6.0-litre SA Aperta model to showgoers, but the exercise was largely a waste of time – for all 80 models have been sold.

Ferrari is building the SA Apertas to celebrate design studio Pininfarina's 80th anniversary. The SA in the car's name pays homage to Sergio and Andrea Pininfarina – whose company has been linked to some of the most successful cars ever built.

Ford's high-performance 2.0-litre Focus ST took centre stage on the Blue Oval's show stand, but Britain won't see the car until 2012.

Vauxhall, meanwhile, put the show spotlight on its GTC Paris concept, for it forms the base template for the next-generation three-door Astra, if industry insider reports are to be believed.

Bridging the gap between EVs and the standard-power cars are the hybrids, and Honda has pushed the show boat out for its Jazz supermini – the world's first B-segment hybrid.

The 64.2mpg Jazz, which is driven by the same 1.3-litre petrol-electric combination seen in Honda's Insight, will be in the UK early in 2011. The Jazz hybrid's CO2 emissions are a remarkably low 104g/km, and the firm will reveal the car's prices late this year.

But, fair enough, the electric cars are the real stars in Paris, and one of the first to be unveiled was Nissan's Townpod concept – designed to slash inner-city motoring costs.

Kia's stand featured the eye-catching and unique electric Pop concept – for which the firm's European design team was able to start with a clean sheet of paper.

The cute and colourful three-door Pop must surely reach the streets as demand for city EVs grows, but Gregory Guillaume, Kia Europe's chief designer, was perhaps a little over-enthusiastic when he said that a concept car such as the Pop could only have come from Kia. No, Mr Guillaume, it could easily have come from Citroen, king of quirky car styling.

But it was Mini – which has just launched its largest-ever vehicle, the Countryman – that turned up with the show's smallest EV, a Scooter E concept.

The two-wheeler, a typically robust BMW build, is perhaps the best zero-emissions solution of them all for coping with busy urban traffic.

LAUNCHED: Honda' Jazz hybrid.

MINI: Electric scooter.

Older cars are much desired

INTEREST in older used cars is seeing a massive rise in Britain, and franchised dealers are being urged to respond to this demand.

With the second-hand motors market still suffering from a lack of low mileage, quality used car stock, warranty provider Mondial Assistance says its latest figures show a considerable shift in the age and mileage of cars being sold.

Mondial's analysis of its 2010 January to June warranty sales figures reveals a 75% growth in the number of cars in the 60,000-plus mileage bracket being covered by an aftercare policy, compared to the same period in 2008.

Liz Grindell, Mondial's UK warranty sales manager, says: "This new trend offers benefits for used car buyers and traders alike. Franchised dealers stocking older vehicles can offer the benefits of a 'manufacturer approved used' programme, giving the customers a wider choice of cars to choose from."

And this interest in older stock means dealers may be able to attract a new wave of customers who have not ventured into a franchised showroom before.

Finally, predicting the best second-hand buy, one that will be easy to offload when vehicle trading-in times comes round again, isn't such a difficult process, says the editor of Used Car Expert magazine, Matt Tumbridge.

"While no-one has a crystal ball that can predict future demand for used motors, drivers should study The Society of Motor Manufacturers and Traders' (SMMT) latest new-car figures.

"While those figures are for new wheels, the majority of Britain's car buyers are used-car buyers." But Tumbridge says, look at the best-sellers in the SMMT's latest figures - Ford and Vauxhall, for instance, are still top of the tree, and have kept rivals out of the top four slots so far this year.

Translate that to the second-hand sector, says Tumbridge, and it means that, for years and years to come, the cheapest, most in-demand motoring will be in Ford's Fiesta or Focus, or Vauxhall's Astra or Corsa.

"A couple of those models depreciate heavily, too, so are cheaper to buy. All four are cheap to service if only because there are more garages out there who can do the work, which means their prices have to be competitive," he adds.

"Any of the SMMT's top 10 sellers will prove a good, solid, buy on the second-hand market, and my only advice is to get shot of premium buys, like the BMW 3 Series, before their 10th birthday.

"If you hang on to a car for too long, you may well end up with an expensive-to-repair, high mileage, low-value car that no-one wants because there are so many to choose from on the market," Tumbridge concludes.

■ A beautifully restored Morris Minor post van was donated by the Royal Mail for auction, with all proceeds going to children's charity Barnardo's. That red 1970 Minor van has now sold, exceeding its £5,000 hammer estimate to make £8,000 for Barnardo's.

British Car Auctions waived all fees, too, at its Blackbushe, Surrey, centre. The Royal Mail bought the van back from private hands in the late 1980s, and four of its employees on the Isle of Wight restored the van to its former glory in 1992.

Notice of public participation in the preparation of a development plan document under Regulation 25 of the above regulations

Consultation period 07 October 2010 to 02 December 2010

Essex County Council and Southend-on-Sea Borough Council have produced a Joint Essex and Southend-on-Sea Waste Development Document (WDD) Issues and Options Paper (October 2010), which sets out the key planning issues for future waste management facing both authorities from now until 2031. This will cover all waste, including municipal, commercial & industrial and construction & demolition waste. Feedback from this consultation will inform the production of the preferred approach stage of the document, including preferred strategy and preferred sites. Public consultation will take place at each of these stages in accordance with the above regulations and both authorities' Statements of Community Involvement, before the eventual submission of the final document to the Secretary of State. Copies of the current document are available for public inspection from 07 October 2010 on the County Council website at www.essex.gov.uk/WDD, on the Southend website at www.southend.gov.uk/WDD, at County Hall in Chelmsford, at the Civic Centre, Victoria Avenue, Southend, at all Essex and Southend main and branch libraries and at District and Borough Council offices (listed below).

Representations on the WDD Issues and Options Paper (October 2010) are invited during the eight-week period of public participation from 07 October 2010 to 02 December 2010 and must be received by 17:30 on 02 December 2010. Representations can be submitted in any of the following ways to Essex County Council: online via <http://consult.essexcc.gov.uk>, by email to mineralsandwastepolicy@essex.gov.uk, by fax to 01245 437213 or in writing to the Head of Environmental Planning (WDD), Minerals & Waste Planning, Essex County Council Freepost CL 3636, E3 County Hall, Chelmsford CM1 1QH. Representations directly to Southend-on-Sea should be made online via <http://consult.essexcc.gov.uk>, by email to debeskinner@southend.gov.uk, by fax to 01702 215465 or in writing to Southend-on-Sea Borough Council, Strategic Planning Group, PO Box 5557, Victoria Avenue, Southend-on-Sea SS2 6ZF.

Your CV

When you send your CV off to a potential employer, remember that you won't be the only one. Hundreds of other people could be applying for the job as well.

So what are you going to do to make you stand out from the crowd? Why should an employer take a chance on you instead of someone else?

Your CV is your first real chance to sell yourself to a potential employer. Most employers will scan through a CV in about 30 seconds so you need to grab their attention from the start - and make them want to invite you for an interview.

There are five main areas to consider when writing your CV:

- Make sure your CV looks the part. Your CV should look clean and tidy - don't scrawl it out on a piece of A4 paper. If you haven't got access to a PC or printer, ask a friend or use your local library. Use a good quality paper and steer clear of fancy borders and front covers.
- Watch out for silly spelling and grammar mistakes. They make you look lazy and show employers that you don't really care. It's not difficult to do a spell check on your PC and if you're really stuck then don't just guess, reach for a dictionary. Get a friend to read through your CV for you - a second opinion is always useful.
- Make sure your CV is well organised. When you list your previous jobs, make sure the dates are correct and try not to leave any gaps. If you took time out to go travelling then say so - employers won't mark you down just because you've tried something new.
- Don't waffle. Remember that employers don't have time to read every word of your CV. Long paragraphs and sentences put people off, so try bullet-points to break up text. Make sure your CV is no longer than two pages long - employers don't want your life history, they just want to see that you've got what it takes to do the job.
- Don't list any failures. Employers have enough trouble finding someone who is right for the job - they don't need help finding reasons not to employ you. If you have to include a mistake from your past, make sure you show the employer that you learnt something from the experience.

Keep it simple

Personal details

Start off with your full name, address, date of birth, home and mobile phone numbers, email address and nationality. If you are offered an interview, the employer will want to get hold of you so give him as many options as possible.

Summary/professional profile

This is the No1 area for selling yourself. Set out your main skills and personal qualities but keep it interesting and tight - one paragraph should do to cover everything.

Education and qualifications

List your qualifications and education history, with the most recent first. You don't need to list the grades for each exam you have passed unless they were exceptional results - simply listing the number and type of exams you've passed is fine. Also, list any relevant professional organisations you belong to and training courses you have been on.

Work experience

Start with your most recent position and work backwards, giving addresses along with start and finish dates. Set out your main responsibilities, duties and most importantly achievements, along with any skills you picked up or improvements you made while you were there. This is a really important section in your CV so make it count - but don't waffle.

If you have not had a full-time job before, detail any part-time jobs you may have held or any placement you have been on.

Other skills

Set out any computer skills you may have and the software you are most familiar with. Can you type, do shorthand or speak a foreign language fluently? If you have a driving licence, let the employer know. If it's clean, tell them.

Interests & hobbies

Briefly list what you get up to in your spare time. Put down any positions you hold in clubs or associations, along with any responsibilities and achievements.

References

Make sure you have at least two people (including one from your previous or current job) who will tell an employer what a thoroughly nice person you are and what a potential asset to the company you would be.

If you want to list them now make sure you include their name, job title, postal & e-mail address and contact phone numbers. Alternatively, just put "Available on request" so the employer knows to follow up references at a later date.

Add a covering letter

The main aim of a covering letter is to encourage an employer to give you a chance. You want them to read your CV, so sell it to them. You should always enclose a covering letter when applying for a job - most employers won't consider you unless you do.

A covering letter should let the employer know why you are interested in the job and why you think you can do it.

The hints and tips below should point you in the right direction:

- Keep it simple. A covering letter should be short and to the point - no more than six paragraphs.
- Mention the job. If you are replying to an advert, mention what the job is and where you saw it. The company may be advertising for other positions and it may not be clear which job you are applying for.
- Sell yourself. Explain why you are the perfect candidate for the job. Show off your strengths and experience. Refer to your CV - if it goes missing then at least an employer will know that you've sent it.
- Check it for mistakes. A silly spelling mistake in a covering letter is likely to cost you your chance of getting an interview. Also, make sure it is addressed to the right person in the right department.

A covering letter can be just as important as a CV in getting you an interview. It's your first point of contact with your potential employer - so make it count.

Walpole Warriors 0 Haverhill Rov 8
Cambridge and District Colts League, under-12C

CHARLIE Stephens put Walpole Warriors to the sword with a devastating second-half display which took Rovers joint top of the table.

He scored five times after the break as the visitors' pressure – which saw them lead 2-0 despite Billy Jarvis and John Burrell hitting the woodwork – finally paid off.

Jack Hunsdon scored both first-half goals with Chinno Nkem-Paul completing the scoring with an impressive 30-yarder.

Hunts Rowdies 3 Haverhill Rov 4
Cambridge and District Colts League under-15A

FRESH from securing their first three points of the season the previous week, Rovers came out top in a seven-goal thriller.

They had to come from behind, conceding an early goal before Vitor Calheiros and Keegan Ayer put them 2-1 up before Rowdies equalised late in the first half.

Danny Knight and Christian Rose made the most of Rovers' superiority in the second half to ensure a late goal for the home side was just a consolation.

West Wrattling 3 Burwell Tigers 2
Cambridge and District Colts League, under-14B

A BRILLIANT save by keeper Aaron Millar midway through the second half kept Wrattling in the game and inspired them to go on and secure the points.

With the score at 1-1 – Rory Jebb had put the home side ahead – Millar leaped backwards to palm a goalbound effort on to the crossbar. Earle Lambert and Ryan Cooper made the most of the escape before

Comberton Crusaders 0 Haverhill Rov 2
Cambridge and District Colts League Cup, under-13 first round

TWO second-half goals sent Rovers into the next round after they pounded the Crusaders defence without much luck in the second period.

Charlie Smith, Will Bailey, Chidera Nkem Paul and Jack Trowbridge all went close before Joe Tofts broke the deadlock.

Will Bailey added a second, but it took a late goal-line clearance from Paul Jenkins to keep Crusaders from narrowing the arrears.

Priory Parkside B 3 Haverhill Rov 1
Cambridge and District Colts League under-13D

DESPITE a gutsy performance, Haverhill failed to get off the mark for the season. They were undone by three similar high balls through the middle in the first half, forcing a change of tactics, which only yielded a goal for George Culley.

Saffron Walden 3 Haverhill Rov 8
S-Tech Cambs Girls League, under-16

ROVERS had to dig deep for the victory, with several players staying on the pitch despite suffering injuries.

Rovers raced into a 3-0 lead through Stacey Roper (2) and Charlotte Westrope but Walden hit back to equalise before Katie Schulz raced on to a through ball to make it 4-3 at the break.

Walden stepped up the pressure at the start of the second half but Rovers gradually got back on top with goals from Alisha Jenkins, Kama Jenkins, Chloe Ellis and Westrope.

Kedington 11 Huntingdon Rowdies 0
Cambridge and District Colts League, under-13C

TYE Alleney scored four times in the first half as Kedington broke Rowdies' resistance with a seven-goal blast. Alleney opened the scoring, paving the way for further goals from Cameron Kidd, an own goal and Bailey Cassidy.

Kidd added his second early in the second half before Conor Rankin (2), and Alleney rounded off the rout.

Castle Camps 3 Fulbourn Falcons 1
Cambridge and District Colts League Cup, under-12 first round

SOMETHING had to give when two unbeaten sides clashed in the cup, with Castle Camps finally getting the upper hand.

They finally scored towards the end of a finely-balanced first half when Whited raced through to score.

However, the game took a decisive twist soon after Robson hit the post when Thompson and Westley made it 3-0. Falcons pulled a late goal back.

Thurlow 0 Lakenheath 1
Cambridge and District Colts League, under-14C

THURLOW dropped their first points of the season in an exciting encounter against fellow high-flyers Lakenheath.

The game could have gone either way but Jordan Ryan hit the post and Lakenheath took their only real chance of the half in stoppage time. Mason Iron worked tirelessly up front but could not make the breakthrough Thurlow deserved.

Aztecs 8 S&SS B 1

Cambs 9v9 League, under-12

AZTECS continued their unbeaten start to the season with a cup romp – after going behind midway through the first half.

That sparked Aztecs into life and they were ahead before the break thanks to goals from Hector Corey and Tyler Thurgood. Corey went on to score five times as Jack Steward and Thurgood completed the scoring.

Thurlow 4 Plantation 4

Cambs Mini League, under-10B

JOE Morley pounced on a save from the keeper to give Thurlow first blood in the eight-goal thriller against unbeaten Plantation.

And although two soft goals put the visitors ahead, Finlay Dray and Toby Catley, with a cheeky back heel, put their side back in front.

However, a penalty and another strike put Plantation before Finlay Plant curled a late equaliser.

Needlingworth 1 Hundon Hawks 4

Cambridge and District Colts League under-12 Knockout Cup

MILO Holmes gave Hawks a flying start in the cup clash, and that was improved moments later when Harry Sergeant turned in a cross.

Although the hosts pulled a goal back, Holmes made it 3-1 right on the half time whistle direct from an inswinging corner.

Branham Ince rounded off the scoring in the second half.

Priory Parkside 2 West Wrattling 0
Cambridge and District Colts League, under-15A

WEST Wrattling last count of the number of chances they created but failed to convert.

TheSafebox.co.uk-sponsored side dominated the first half, but probably realised it was not going to be their day when skipper Matt Burley's rashing 15-yard volley was somehow kept out.

Tom Pinker hit the bar and in one frantic attack, the ball twice fizzed across the Priory six-yard box without anyone being able to supply a decisive touch.

Women draw

THE young pairing of Kurtis Nobbs and Billy Hudson battled back from 3-0 down in the first set to win 6-3 against a Newmarket B pairing.

But although they won another set against the second Newmarket pair in the Norfolk and Suffolk League, Division Three clash, Haverhill lost 5-3.

By contrast Jake Warner and Ray Goddard were 3-0 up in their first two sets but lost both 5-7.

■ Haverhill women drew both their matches against Burwell in Norfolk and Suffolk Division One.

In the away game, Amanda Smith and Abi Cartwright-Thomas won three sets and lost one, while Gill Argent and Joan Ford won one but lost three.

Both pairs had similar records in the home match, Smith and Cartwright-Thomas and Argent and Marcia Armstrong both winning two and losing two.

Haylock not such a Mug

ROBERT Haylock proved he was no mug when he won the Mugs Cup at the conclusion of Haverhill's three 'major' events.

The competition is for those players with handicaps above 18 who have yet to win a 'major', and Haylock took top spot by beating Roger Hartley 3&1.

Chris Vince secured victory in the second event, the Signpost Paints Cup – a scratch matchplay competition – by defeating Paul Houchen while Gordon Price won the Spencer Woods Cup (the matchplay event with a handicap limit of 18) by beating Duncan Galloway in the final.

■ Glynn Carroll weathered the loss of his playing partner to illness and won the first leg of the Winter Alliance at Rushmere.

The Haverhill player paired up with Stoke by Nayland's Peter Jiggins at the last minute, but they returned 41 stableford points to beat the Stoke team. John Partridge and Chris Clark, on countback.

Victory put Carroll among the early leaders of a contest which goes through to March.

■ Michael Warren and guest Robert Cramsie took top spot at the men's invitation day, winning the 4BBB event with 41 points from Simon Iron and H Craven (40pts). Steve Nichols and Glyn Davies (39pts) were third, edging out Haverhill's head pro Paul Wilby and his guest, Michael Duley while Stewart White, the presenter of BBC TV's Look East programme, was the guest of club vice-president Dennis Harkness but finished just out of the points on 38pts.

■ Gerry Scott scored a superb victory in the men's September Medal, winning on countback from Gary Webb. Both finished with nett 66 and have had their handicaps reduced by a shot.

Details – Division One: 1 Gerry Scott 73-7-66, 2 Stuart King 82-12-70, 3 Peter Driscoll 82-11-71. Division Two: 1 Gary Webb 85-19-66, 2 Jonathan Wiseman 85-17-68, 3 Kim Ward 83-13-70. Division Three: 1 Daniel Allen 99-27-72, 2 Graham Hepworth 94-21-73, 3 Steve Bush 97-24-73.

■ Haverhill's ladies lost at Coupals Road to Stowmarket 3-1 but recovered to beat Newmarket 3½-½ the following day.

The seniors mirrored those results, losing 5-3 at Stowmarket but bouncing back with a 5½-2½ defeat against Ely City.

■ Sue Carr won the ladies' medal by just one shot – returning 89-12-77 – from Mary Sail, who finished with 94-16-78. Pat Kennedy was third on 96-18-78.

We'll be up and running: Hope

Haverhill 3 Holt 6

Greene King IPA Eastern Counties League, Division One GAVIN Hope is encouraged that Haverhill will soon be heading in the right direction, despite their narrow defeat by Holt.

After suffering heavy defeats in their opening two defeats, they were then unable to field a front row and had to forfeit their match at West Norfolk. But they steadied the ship in a tight match at home to Holton Saturday, only losing 6-3 with Kieran Ewens kicking their points.

Skipper Holt said: "It was a lot better. The score was a pretty fair reflection of the game. It could have gone either way, it was quite tight. "We worked really hard in defence. It was a lot better performance. There's a platform to work from and things to work on in training. "We're building a much stronger team and probably have one or two to come back in. We're getting a full-strength squad."

Hope has his sights set on wins over the teams around them – Thurston, Fakenham and Woodbridge – and said: "We need to work our way up the table a little bit. There a few teams that we have to target around us for results." While the first team struggles on the pitch, the future of rugby at the club is rosy, if the Sunday morning youth sessions are anything to go by.

The whole field was in use with junior training sessions, an entertaining under-16 match flanked by an under-13 and under-14 training session and a well-attended 'rugby ready' course staged by the RFU which introduces prospective coaches to coaching for their badges. The under-16s played Saffron Walden in an enjoyable, fast-moving game which the visitors won 19-5.

Rovers rally but Betts still fumes at Vase KO

Haverhill Rov 3 Brantham Ath 1

Ridgeons League, Premier Division HAVERHILL bounced back from their disappointing defeat by Leiston in the FA Vase to beat Brantham – but they had to do it the hard way.

With thoughts of Saturday's controversial exit still in their minds, Rovers made a slow start to the game and fell behind in the 20th minute following a mistake by Marcus Hunt.

But just as it looked as if the away side would keep their lead at half time, Stuart Wardley levelled just before the whistle. Rovers improved in the second half and Dan Emmanuel marked his home debut with a well-taken goal in the 55th minute. Marc Abbott then sealed the victory 15 minutes from time after Emmanuel pulled the ball back across goal.

Delighted boss Peter Betts said: "I was really pleased the way the lads responded after the weekend defeat.

"At first they were feeling a bit sorry for themselves but falling a goal behind gave them a kick up the backside and they got another one at half time.

"They responded in the right way and it was really good to get three points."

Betts, however, is to appeal against the red cards for Marcus Hunt and Mark Abbott in the stormy defeat at Leiston on Saturday.

Rovers lost 3-2 after extra time, despite Abbott and Stuart Wardley putting them 2-0 up in the first half.

But Hunt was dismissed 15 minutes from time after collecting his second booking with the hosts taking advantage to claw back the deficit.

Then Betts was sent to the stands in injury time after making his feelings known when Dalton O'Brien was flagged for offside after breaking clear.

Leiston were also reduced to 10 men in extra time after Paul Abbott was scythed down. And in the mass brawl that followed, Abbott also saw red. Just as it seemed the tie would be heading for a replay, the hosts netted the winner in the final minute.

Betts said: "I still haven't calmed down. If Marcus stays on, we've won the game, but, unfortunately, the referee has influenced the outcome. We'll be appealing both red cards and Leiston have said they'll write reports on our behalf as well which says it all."

Rovers have two trips to Woodbridge in the next week – a league game on Saturday and a Suffolk Premier Cup clash on Tuesday.
